A. PRELIMINARY CONSIDERATIONS

Introducción a la Lengua Inglesa (ILI) at Facultad de Lenguas is a first-year subject and is shared by both the Teacher-Training and the Translation courses at Universidad Nacional del Comahue. This is a one-year course of approximately 640 hours, 20 hours per week. Sixteen hours out of the twenty will be devoted to acquiring the English language, two hours to English grammar and two hours to English diction. Grammar and Diction will support the Language module, giving students practice on the respective fields. At the end of the syllabus, students will find a brief description of the contents dealt with in Diction as well as in Grammar.

The students taking this subject have different levels of proficiency in English and they are divided into four groups according to the number of students, but not according to their knowledge of the language. The teacher in charge of each group is thus faced with a mixed-level group of students. Throughout the course, students are taken from an elementary through a pre-intermediate level until they reach an intermediate standard, which according to the Common European Framework of References for Languages equals a B1 level.

This course is aimed at training students to become future teachers and translators. They are expected to understand and reflect critically upon the language, in general, and upon writing and oral discourse, in particular. This is why the development of communicative competence plays a crucial role in consolidating the knowledge of the target language. In order to achieve this, the contents and methodology of the course promote the development of the different aspects related to communicative competence: linguistic, sociolinguistic, strategic and discourse competences (Cfr. Hymes 1972, Canale & Swain 1980).

Linguistic competence comprises the knowledge of the formal system of the language as well as the lexical, phonological, syntactic and semantic skills. It also implies the accuracy and adequacy of these linguistic components to different registers determined by the particular contexts.

Sociolinguistic competence refers to the socio-cultural rules of the language use, namely social and cultural aspects of the language that determine if the message is appropriate in different contexts, depending on factors of the communicative situation such as the participants, the purpose and the rules of interaction. This competence includes awareness of the intercultural aspects of language that implies the ability to interact with other speakers (native and non-native) that have different social identities, cultural rules, customs, attitudes, values and beliefs. In our context, intercultural competence involves assessing the culture of the foreign language in its diversity and the different varieties and contexts in which the English language is spoken as a mother tongue or as a second language, as well as being aware of the existence of regional and individual peculiarities that need to be mutually respected.

Discourse competence refers to the way ideas are linked across sentences (in written discourse) or utterances (in spoken discourse), while strategic competence refers to a person's ability to keep communication going when there is a breakdown, or to enhance its effectiveness. It means being able to get one's message across through the use of repetition, volume, paraphrasing, among others, without underestimating the idiomatic use of the foreign language in a context of higher education.

Along these lines, both productive and receptive skills (Scarsella & Oxford 1992) are developed during the course, so that first-year students are given the necessary tools to keep on building up the knowledge of the language system as a whole, expanding their vocabulary considerably from a formulaic perspective and developing the other aspects of the target language involved in communication. In addition, to meet the communicative goals of the syllabus and foster the development of communication skills, during this course students are encouraged to carry out interactive tasks (e.g. Littlewood 1981, Nunan 2004) such as project work (Fried-Booth 1986), problem solving and team work activities, among others.

B. OBJECTIVES

1. General aims

- To lay a sound foundation so that students can understand and produce the basics of the English linguistic system, which will enable them to succeed in the coming language courses.
- To develop learners' ability to acquire and use the English language for communicative purposes, while enhancing their (socio) linguistic, strategic and discursive competences.
- To encourage cooperative learning, which will lead to a more varied talk, more negotiation of meaning, a more relaxed and flexible atmosphere and greater motivation.
- To foster the development of the abilities to listen and accept constructive feedback to promote class solidarity and mutual helpfulness.
- To enhance the learners' knowledge of the cultures whose language they are acquiring, and to develop their understanding and acceptance of diversity.
- To engage learners both affectively and cognitively.
- To integrate and make use of the four macro linguistic skills in a meaningful context.
- To foster autonomy through the development of learning strategies.
- To help students consider the foreign language as a communicative tool to express messages, personal opinions and points of view about various topics.
- To foster learners' engagement in purposeful use of language by means of stimulating communicative activities.
- To help students develop a critical view of their learning process in order to consolidate their metalinguistic knowledge.

2. Specific objectives

By the end of the academic year, the course is expected:

- To develop and integrate both receptive and productive skills so that students can reach an intermediate level in the proficiency of the foreign language.
- To develop the ability to deal with written as well as spoken genres.
- To help students develop and apply reading and listening strategies appropriate to their needs.
- To develop students' ability to understand and produce appropriate grammatical forms for different communicative functions.
- To expand students' vocabulary considerably from a formulaic perspective.
- To help students develop an increasing awareness of the importance of pronunciation – individual sounds, stress, rhythm and intonation – as a means of enhancing communication.
- To help learners acquire fluency in the spoken language as well as to boost their confidence in speaking.
- To raise, in the learners, a growing awareness about their errors so that they can spot them and correct them.

C. COURSE DESCRIPTION

The course is organized around two textbooks (Life Elementary New Edition Student's book, and Life Pre – intermediate New Edition Student's book) which will provide the basis for the content of the lessons as well as a good balance in the presentation of the different macro skills. As there are four groups of students, the use of the textbooks will ensure that all first-year students receive the same type of input, and study the same core contents, which will facilitate validity and reliability in evaluation sessions, and can be tested in the same way. Moreover, some supplementary material is provided so as to meet students' needs more precisely: Life Elementary Workbook New Edition, Life Pre-Intermediate Workbook New Edition, Introductory Booklet, Booklet 1 and Booklet 2.

1. The four Skills

a) Listening

Scripted materials: These will include the class audio CDs and the students' DVDs which accompany the book and workbook, as well as the audiobook of some of the readers.

Authentic materials: Trailers and clips of some of the readers dealt with during the course.

b) Speaking

Conversations based on everyday situations, surveys, reports of surveys

Discussion of reading material, especially of readers

Discussion of audiovisual materials such as trailers, tv series, short films, films

c) Writing

Description of people, places and routines; summaries, stories, biographies and letters

Paragraph organization, use of linking words, punctuation marks, spelling rules

Mechanics: Capitalization, numbers and abbreviations

Text organization: Introduction, development and conclusion

Steps and techniques in writing: Pre-writing (brainstorming, making a list, clustering, free writing, preparing an outline), writing a first draft, revising content and sentences, editing, proof-reading

d) Reading

Intensive reading: The texts in the textbooks will be worked on intensively, considering the vocabulary, grammar forms, meanings, purposes and writers' points of view.

Extensive reading: In order to encourage students to read pleasurable so that they can acquire a lifelong habit, during the course they will be required to read five blocks with readers whose level ranges from Elementary to Advanced. Some readers will be dealt with in class through discussion of the plot, the setting, the characters and conflicts. In order for students to plunge into authentic English, the last block also contains some authentic reading material based on short stories and one novel. Moreover, some extra authentic novels are included on the list of Reading Material (p. 18).

D. CONTENTS

The following sections include the list of contents for the Language, Diction and Grammar modules.

LANGUAGE MODULE CONTENTS

The criteria for the selection of the grammatical structures and lexical items for each of the units is strictly linked to their relevance and usefulness for the topics under discussion and the completion of the different tasks. In relation to their vocabulary expansion, we will follow the latest trend in vocabulary learning and teaching (Lewis (1993, 1997 & 2000), Hoey (2005), Meunier & Granger (2008), and Schmitt (2010)) which has broadened the view of the Lexicon to include not only isolated words but also formulaic sequences. These (relatively) fixed strings of words (Wray (2002), (2008)), such as idioms, collocations, phrasal verbs, and chunks, play a pivotal role in a learning environment as they "contribute to their fluent speaking and writing" and "make listening and reading easier" (Lindstromberg & Boers, 2008, pp. 8-9)

2.MODULO DE DICCIÓN

1. Metas

- Ayudar a los estudiantes en el desarrollo de la competencia comunicativa en las modalidades receptiva y productiva de la lengua oral,
- Sensibilizar a los alumnos a la percepción de los rasgos característicos de la lengua inglesa hablada para mejorar la comprensión de textos orales del nivel de lengua de la asignatura,
- Alentar a los estudiantes a desarrollar una pronunciación inteligible con las características básicas de la lengua inglesa,
- Ayudar a los alumnos a establecer una relación entre la grafía y el alfabeto fonético,
- Guiar a los estudiantes en el desarrollo de la habilidad de transcribir textos utilizando el Alfabeto Fonético Internacional,
- Fomentar el uso del diccionario de pronunciación y su versión digital en CD-ROM como medio para acceder a la pronunciación correcta de las palabras en inglés.

Objetivos

- Incentivar el reconocimiento de unidades prosódicas,
- Sensibilizar a los estudiantes a la percepción de la alternancia rítmica entre sílabas fuertes y débiles,
- Fomentar el reconocimiento de la entonación descendente y ascendente,
- Ayudar a los estudiantes a reconocer los contrastes básicos de vocales y consonantes,
- Estimular el desarrollo de una pronunciación inteligible que presente unidades prosódicas que coincidan con frases gramaticales, ubicación del acento léxico, pronunciación de los sonidos del habla, resilabificación (juntura entre palabras), debilitamiento vocálico en sílabas débiles y reglas de formación de pasados, plurales, etc.

Contenidos:

- Segmentación del habla en unidades prosódicas.
- Ritmo: Alternancia rítmica. Sílabas fuertes y débiles. Acento nuclear. Acentuación de palabras simples y compuestas. Acento principal en el habla. Acento léxico. Algunas reglas de formas fuertes y débiles.

Actividades

- Ejercicios de comprensión auditiva
 - Discriminación de los rasgos segmentales y suprasegmentales estudiados y de los contrastes fonológicos. Discriminación de algunos alofófonos: aspiración.
 - Práctica oral de los rasgos segmentales y suprasegmentales estudiados en ejercitación guiada y libre.
 - Uso de la transcripción fonológica utilizando el Alfabeto Fonético Internacional, la representación del ritmo (sílabas fuertes y débiles) a través de círculos grandes y pequeños, y la representación de la configuración tonal nuclear a través de flechas que indican la dirección del movimiento tonal.

Organización y Metodología

El módulo de dicción comprende clases teórico/prácticas destinadas a abordar diferentes aspectos de la pronunciación a través de ejercicios de percepción y producción (escrita y oral). Dicha ejercitación se encuentra, en su mayoría, en el cuadernillo denominado “Introducción a la Lengua Inglesa - Dicción – 2023. Éste ofrece juegos, canciones, ejercicios de discriminación auditiva, dictados y transcripciones entre otras alternativas. Para complementar la concientización del alfabeto fonético del inglés, se utiliza el cuadernillo IPAgraphy, diseñado por los miembros de este módulo. Este material tiene el objetivo de ayudar a los estudiantes a desarrollar el proceso de escritura del Alfabeto Fonético Internacional.

La plataforma virtual PEDCO funciona como herramienta de consolidación de saberes, ya que allí se encuentran videos interactivos, diseñados por los integrantes del equipo de cátedra, que afianzan los aspectos discutidos en las clases presenciales. Los trabajos prácticos asignados, tales como dictados, transcripciones y grabaciones tienen la finalidad de desarrollar e integrar las distintas habilidades y afianzar los contenidos trabajados. Dichas tareas se llevan a cabo, en gran parte, a través de la plataforma PEDCO, la cual también actúa como medio de comunicación al ofrecer el foro de dudas y mensajería. Otros canales de comunicación utilizados son Facebook e e-mails de contacto. Las clases de consulta, además de tener la finalidad de aclarar dudas, cumplen la función de ofrecer un espacio de práctica. Estas sesiones se realizan de manera presencial o virtual (ZOOM), y se acuerdan con anterioridad con el estudiante.

3. MÓDULO DE GRAMÁTICA INGLESA

1. Objetivos

1. Incorporar la terminología específica para la descripción y análisis de la lengua inglesa desde el punto de vista lingüístico.
2. Describir, diferenciar y lograr caracterizar diferentes clases de palabras a partir de su distribución y propiedades morfológicas.
3. Analizar la estructura de la oración a partir de la estructura argumental y temática de su predicado.
4. Poder dar cuenta de oraciones agramaticales a partir de los conceptos formales adquiridos.
5. Analizar, hipotetizar y presentar generalizaciones de problema sintácticos.
6. Poder dar evidencia de un fenómeno gramatical.

2. Organización y Metodología

El módulo de gramática inglesa comprende clases teórico-prácticas destinadas a abordar aspectos sobre la descripción de diferentes categorías de palabras, léxicas y funcionales. Sus características principales se abordan en relación a criterios tanto sintácticos como morfológicos para realizar su clasificación. Este trabajo permite a los alumnos desarrollar estrategias para el reconocimiento categorial teniendo en cuenta las propiedades formales de las mismas, desarrollando y potenciando la independencia del conocimiento semántico que puedan o no tener de ellas. La ejercitación que se realiza en el módulo apunta no solo a realizar descripciones sintácticas simples sino a desarrollar estrategias de argumentación sintáctica apoyados en el conocimiento formal de la lengua meta que están aprendiendo.

La metodología aplicada en este módulo es el de la clase invertida (Sams & Bergmann 2014). Cada semana, los alumnos reciben una guía de actividades teórico-práctica que le permite a los alumnos trabajar e incorporar los conceptos y sus relaciones de manera escalonada y establecer las relaciones correspondientes. Las primeras actividades en esta guía apuntan a que los alumnos revisen e incorporen algunas definiciones, conceptos y resuman contenidos antes de trabajar en clase, y cada tema teórico está acompañado de un resumen teórico y un video explicativo que los alumnos pueden consultar siempre que necesiten. De esta manera, durante la clase, se pueden realizar caracterizaciones más complejas y establecer otras relaciones entre los diferentes aspectos a trabajar. Vale aclarar que las mismas no solo se focalizan en brindar la posibilidad de afianzar los contenidos trabajados sino que además explotan y buscan desarrollar una serie de estrategias y procedimientos que les permitan a los alumnos abordar la lengua desde una perspectiva y análisis formales. Los alumnos tienen toda la semana para trabajar en esta guía antes de asistir a clases.

Tanto los trabajos prácticos asignados como las actividades semanales incluyen tareas de clasificación y análisis de palabras, análisis estructural para detectar ambigüedad y oraciones agramaticales y argumentación sintáctica para identificar si un enunciado es verdadero o falso. Todas estas actividades están contextualizadas y se relacionan a temas que pueden interesarles a los alumnos en el contexto en el que se encuentran: análisis de chistes en memes, frases, instrucciones para descargar aplicaciones que utilizan, fragmentos de canciones de artistas clásicos y contemporáneos, fragmentos de series, entre otros.

En PEDCO específicamente, los alumnos cuentan con una pizarra que contiene la siguiente información con accesos rápidos: (1) foro de dudas; (2) e-mails de contacto; (3) clases de consultas, horarios, etc.; (4) Power Point Presentations; (5) Ejercitaciones semanales; (6) respuestas esperadas a las ejercitaciones; (7) Videos con las clases grabadas y (8) Prácticos.

3. Contenidos

- Subject and predicate, expletives and differences in subject realization in English and Spanish;
- Agreement and the notion of subject: to set it apart from the doer of the action;
- Arguments vs. adjuncts: obligatory and non-obligatory elements in the sentence. The terms argument structure and thematic structure are introduced with examples;
- Simple and complex words: affixes. Inflectional and derivational suffixes;
- Nouns and adjectives. Agreement and position differences in English and Spanish;
- The contribution of distributional morphological criteria to classify word classes;
- Lexical categories: nouns, adjectives and verbs. Description and most salient morphological and distributional criteria, their dependents and phrase internal dependencies;
- Functional categories: determiners, quantifiers, pronouns. Description of properties and grammatical information encoded. Distributional criteria: phrases they can/cannot select as complement;
- Adjectives and determiners syntactic differences to see the need of a separate syntactic category;
- Modals and auxiliary verbs: the grammatical information they encode, their role in negative and interrogative sentences and verb form they select;
- Main verbs vs. link verbs: phrases they select as complement; and
- Presentation of transitive verbs: argument structure and thematic structure.

Skills, strategies and activities

- Description of morphological and distributional properties of different word classes extracted from different types of texts;
- Analysis of sets of sentences to match to the syntactic phenomenon they illustrate;

- Explanation of ungrammatical sentences and sets of sentences;
- Strategies to match possible statements to suitable evidence;
- Analysis of data that serves as illustration and as evidence of a claim;
- Statements. Giving evidence. Steps to prove a claim right or wrong; and
- Syntactic argumentation: start constructing home-made “artificial” examples to test certain hypotheses on word classes, their syntactic behaviour and restrictions.

E. ASSESSMENT (all modules)

The following is a description of the requirements to pass the whole course, including the Language, English Grammar and Diction modules.

1. APROBACIÓN DEL CURSADO

APROBACIÓN DEL CURSADO DE LA ASIGNATURA INTRODUCCIÓN A LA LENGUA INGLESA 2023

a) Alumnos Regulares

Los alumnos regulares deberán:

- 1- Asistir a las clases de cada uno de los módulos (Lengua, Gramática y Dicción).
- 2- Aprobar el 60% de los trabajos prácticos de cada uno de los módulos (Lengua, Gramática y Dicción) con 4. Estar ausente y no presentar un justificativo significa tener “desaprobado”. Los trabajos prácticos no tienen recuperatorio.
- 3- Aprobar los exámenes parciales escritos y orales o sus recuperatorios de cada uno de los módulos (Lengua, Gramática y Dicción).
- 4-Realizar 3 de los 4 proyectos planificados por el módulo de lengua

b) Alumnos Promocionales

Están eximidos del examen final; no obstante, en el segundo parcial oral, además del material de lectura obligatorio, deberán leer y presentar una (1) novela de las que figuran al final de la sección Reading Material and Deadlines del programa de la asignatura.

Para poder acceder a la promoción, los alumnos deberán:

- 1- Asistir a las clases de cada uno de los módulos (Lengua, Gramática y Dicción).
- 2- Aprobar en cada uno de los módulos (Lengua, Gramática y Dicción) el 70% de los trabajos prácticos con la nota mínima de 7 (siete).
- 3- Aprobar los exámenes parciales escritos y orales de cada uno de los módulos con la nota mínima de 7 (siete) en cada parcial.

2. EXAMEN FINAL

a) Alumnos Regulares

Examen Escrito: El examen escrito consistirá en una composición de aproximadamente 250-280 palabras, en base a sugerencias del tribunal examinador.

Examen Oral: El examen oral versará sobre DOS novelas de las incluidas al final de la sección Reading Material & Deadlines –NOVELS (for final exam)- (pág. 20). Asimismo, se formularán preguntas sobre el material de lectura leído durante el cursado y sobre el material audio visual trabajado en el Block VI. Los videos de los libros LIFE Elementary (New Edition) y LIFE Pre-intermediate (New Edition) serán evaluados en los prácticos orales y en el segundo parcial oral). No serán evaluados en el examen final de los alumnos regulares. En esta instancia se requerirá buena organización de las ideas, exactitud gramatical, fluidez y una pronunciación correcta. Ambas partes del examen (escrita y oral) serán eliminatorias.

b) Alumnos Libres

Los alumnos libres deberán rendir y aprobar un examen de carácter escrito y otro oral según Ordenanza 273-18, Título III, Capítulo 3, Sección a), Artículo 33, Inciso c).¹

Una vez aprobada la instancia escrita se procederá con la evaluación oral para la cual los alumnos deberán presentar TRES novelas de las incluidas al final de la sección Reading Material & Deadlines –NOVELS (for final exam)- (pág.20), y tener en cuenta los demás contenidos y criterios que para los alumnos regulares.

Los exámenes libres deben evaluar los aspectos teóricos y prácticos que hagan al cumplimiento de los objetivos de la asignatura mediante un examen escrito y un examen oral. Una vez aprobada la primera instancia de examen, se tendrá acceso a la segunda, la aprobación de la asignatura se obtiene con la aprobación de ambas instancias.

Los alumnos ingresantes que quieren rendir libre pueden ver el instructivo en: www.fadelweb.uncoma.edu.ar

c) Equivalencias

Los alumnos que desean solicitar la aprobación de ILI como equivalencia deberán contactarse con el equipo de cátedra. Dependiendo del programa de la materia aprobada (incluida en la documentación de la carpeta de equivalencias al momento de solicitar el pase), se aceptará la equivalencia en su totalidad o se pedirá un coloquio para evaluar los contenidos de los tres módulos (Lengua, Gramática y Dicción).
